Dear Internet Humans,

Welcome to my corner of the digital universe! If you're looking for deep philosophical insights, you might want to check someone else's page because I'm pretty sure my last deep thought was about how many marshmallows fit in my mouth. Spoiler alert: it's too many.

I'm a connoisseur of bad puns and occasional existential crises. When I'm not binge-watching something I've already seen three times, you can find me trying to figure out how to fold a fitted sheet--or just shoving it in the closet and calling it a day.

Feel free to follow my adventures! Just remember: I'm only slightly more interesting than a potato.

Stay classy (or not, I won't judge),

[Your Name]

Master of Procrastination and Defender of All Things Silly