Dear Gnats,

I hope this letter finds you in good spirits! I wanted to take a moment to reach out and share some thoughts.

First and foremost, I appreciate the role you play in the ecosystem, especially in decomposition and supporting other species. Your presence has its merits, and I acknowledge your diligent work.

However, I would like to kindly request your cooperation in finding a balance between your natural activities and my living space. It would be wonderful if you could consider relocating to a nearby area, where you can thrive without causing disturbances.

Thank you for your understanding, and I wish you all the best in your endeavors.

Warm regards,
