Dear [Recipient's Name],

I hope this letter finds you in robust health and spirits amidst the ever-looming shadows that envelop our beloved Yharnam. I write to you today to bring forth matters of great import regarding the state of our city and the trials we face.

As you are well aware, the blood ministration has recently faced unprecedented scrutiny, leading to rising tensions among the citizens. The complexities of our situation demand not only immediate action but also a nuanced approach to rejuvenate the faith in our healing practices. Moreover, with the nightly presence of beasts roaming the streets, it has become apparent that our defenses must be fortified. May I suggest convening a council with esteemed members of our community to deliberate on potential strategies for the safeguarding of our beloved Yharnam?

In closing, I must express my unwavering commitment to our city and its people. Should you wish to discuss these matters further, I am at your disposal and look forward to your prompt response.

Yours sincerely,
