To the Esteemed Citizens of Yharnam,

I pen this missive under the shadow of our great city, where the lanterns flicker dimly against the encroaching night.

As the Blood Star beckons, I beseech thee to remain vigilant amidst the whispers that haunt our cobbled streets. The Hunt is upon us, and with it comes both peril and opportunity. Together, let us seek solace in our kinship as we navigate the abyss that looms before us.

Remember to heed the teachings of our forebears; for knowledge is as vital as the blood that courses through our veins. May the Flame guide your paths and the Old Blood flow true.

Yours in the bond of shared purpose,
