Dear Hunter,

I trust this letter finds you well amidst the chaos that envelops our beloved Yharnam. As darkness looms and the echoes of the hunt resonate through the blood-soaked streets, I am compelled to reach out to you with urgent matters that require your attention.

The night is perilous, and the beasts grow stronger with each passing dusk. It is imperative that we unite our strengths to confront the emerging threats that plague our city. The Great Ones stir, and their whispers beckon us to uncover the secrets hidden within the tombs and forgotten places of our land.

I implore you to convene at the Lantern of the Dreaming, where we can strategize and forge a path toward salvation. Together, we shall delve into the depths of Yharnam's mysteries and reclaim the light that has all but vanished.

May your path be clear and your blood be swift. Awaiting your response with trepidation and hope.

With respect,
