[Yharnam, [Date]]

To the Honorable [Recipient's Name],

As the moonlight bathes the cobblestone streets of our beloved Yharnam in an ethereal glow, I pen this missive to convey my thoughts in these trying times. The shadows loom heavily, and whispers of the Great Ones echo through the air, filling our nights with dread and curiosity alike. The hunt continues, and with each blood moon rising, we find ourselves at a crossroads of despair and hope. The plague has gripped our populace, and the once-vibrant streets now lay shrouded in an unsettling stillness. It is imperative that we rally together, seeking both solace and strength in our shared plight.

I beseech you, dear [Recipient's Name], to lend your wisdom and courage to our cause. Together, we can uncover the truth behind this nightmarish affliction that haunts our fair city. The time has come for us to confront the terrors that await in the depths of the Forbidden Woods and the secrets hidden beneath the Old Blood.

May the blood guide us as we tread forward into the abyss.

Yours in the Hunt,
